About sananet

sananet is a healthcare consulting agency, which has a strong specialization in hepatology and products related to liver therapy and diagnostic.

Based in Germany we are working internationally, both regarding our customers as well as the expertise for the markets.

Our typical customers

- Medical technology start up companies who need expertise in market analysis, setting up a business plan to successfully acquire equity or need help with the first steps in sales of medical equipment.
- Mid size companies who want to expand their distribution network worldwide or want to found a subsidiary in Germany.
- International groups who need special expertise, an independent view or an anonymous market research.
- Investors in health care, biotechnology and life science who want to invest and who want to minimize the risk for their investment.

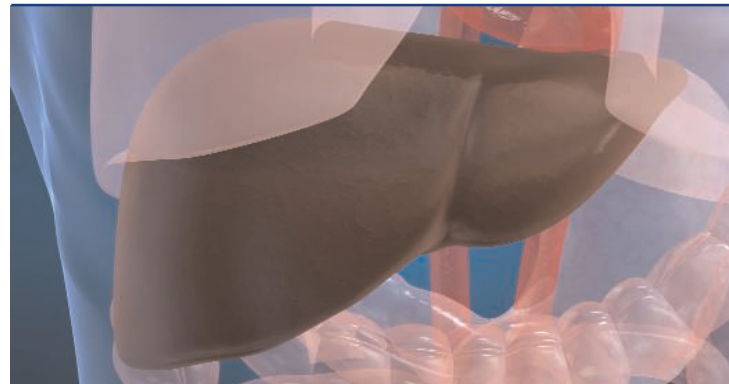

Our Expertise

Our expertise is based on longstanding experience in the medical industry, especially in the liver sector and a good overview of the health care market from our consulting business. Having several customers in the hepatology market, we strictly avoid conflicts of interest by not consulting competing companies at the same time.

Our Services

The focus of sananet's consulting services is to help companies in the health care market to be successful in times of strong competition.
